

We're looking for a creative student who enjoys bringing structure and design together to make presentations clear, consistent, and inspiring.

At Phosphoenix, we're a pioneering MedTech start-up on a mission to restore functional and life-enhancing vision to blind individuals. To support our mission, we'd love your help in developing and strengthening our brand identity across our presentation materials, with a strong focus on PowerPoint.

What you'll do

- Refine and expand our existing PowerPoint template based on our brand guidelines
- Organize and centralize presentation resources (images, graphics, standard slides)
- Help colleagues create consistent, visually appealing presentations with ease
- Share short guides or instructions so everyone knows how to use the template effectively

Who we're looking for

- You have an eye for structure and design
- You're organized, practical, and a clear communicator
- Experience with PowerPoint (or other design tools) is a plus
- Curiosity about technology and innovation is welcome

This is a great opportunity to sharpen your design and branding skills while contributing to a purpose-driven MedTech start-up.
